Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

The Golden Gate Exposition rises from the bay like a beautiful mirage, not in a desert, but in a theatre in which towering cities, majestic, marching bridges, and green tree covered slopes form the perimeter. It rises not from the sand of barren waste but from the blue floor of San Francisco bay, on which is a busy traffic of ships of many kinds. The buildings and courts, the towers and gates of this great walled city, are, critics notwithstanding, the expression of the high genius of the artist-architects who conceived them and wrought them. The entire ensemble has that dream-like quality glimpsed in the lovely paintings of Maxfield Parish.

To see the fair without undue stress, whether living in Oakland or San Francisco, it is far better to take an electric train and ferry boat, than to drive a car into the grounds. There is little difference in cost, to be sure, but there is a vast difference in foot-travel miles. At the end of the day when the patient old feet have been worn off and the visitor is walking on his ankle bones, it is sad thing to remember that there is at least a half mile hike to reach the parking area and the car.

The exhibit in the Palace of Fine Arts of old Italian masters, Titian, Michael Angelo, Verrocchio, da Vinco, Tintoretto, Botticelli, Fra Lippi and a dozen others, is something that it is very unlikely California will ever see again. There are also many great paintings by English and Dutch masters, such as Gainsborough, both portraits and landscapes, Rubens, Franz Hals and many others, that are rarely permitted to leave their own art gallery or museum precincts. In contrast to this wonderful array of the world's greatest art treasures, the display of modern artists, with its generally bad drawing, strident colors, impressionistic, perhaps and often suggesting caricature, is one to be passed rapidly in review, as a foil against which the old paintings of the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, shine with the more splendor.

Perhaps it is worth while to pause here and damn the modernists, their crazy nudes, often contorted and malformed, their idiotic still life, their group daubs, atrocious in color and drawing, their hysterical depiction of misery and poverty. Most of the "moderns" are so badly painted that one pities the artist, so-called, rather than the subjects of his canvas. One suspects that the entire kit and bilin' that have cluttered the walls of this division of paintings, are vermin-plagued Bolsheviks. These leprous canvasses undoubtedly belong to this era, the era of horrible jazz and filthy fiction, of cockeyed sculpture and federal ham acting. The modern art is in harmony with the times; if this faint praise will only damn it.

We note, of course, that much of the sculpture and painting of today is in effect a return to the primitive, just as the music of songs and dances of today reflects the barbaric clash and discord, the wierd and the wild, of savage races with only a slight veneer of sophistication to cover its elemental brutality. But to the appreciative mind there is a vast differences between arts thus borrowed from the jungle and burnished for twentieth century civilization and the honest art of barbaric peoples.

There is something altogether appealing as in the work of a child, in the arts of primitive peoples, as these are exhibited, for instance, in the pavilions of South and Central American states. A pottery bowl, in the Argentine art exhibit one can see, was molded, painted and burned by a tribesman, who put into it his very best. It is a childlike vision of what a useful pottery bowl should be like. It is honest, it is decorative and it is useful. Or a small, household image of a god, laboriosly, bit by bit, carved out of golden onyx. Ugly squat and hatefully grinning as it it is still filled, one can see, the child-mind of the savage who carved it, with a great satisfaction. It too, is honest, the stone itself is beautiful, the craftsmanship exquisite, considering always that it was a savage who selected the stone and slowly shaped it to his uses.

JUNIOR COLLEGE BOYS IN 10-DAY GEOLOGY TRIP

A party of 29 Placer Junior College students spent ten days on a geological trip through the west returning home Saturday afternoon. In the party were Tom Rickard, Phil Joyal, Matt Burgan, Miss Dorothy Thomas, of Nevada City, Don Winstead and Hugh Frye of Sierra City.

The party traveled over the Donner Pass into Reno and stayed at Fallon airport the first night. Sleeping bags permitted the party to sleep in the open. They went to Beatty and back into California to go into Death Valley, then back to Nevada state to Indian Springs, Las Vegas and Boulder Dam. At Boulder dam they were given the rare privilege of going down in the elevator to see the big turbine pumps below water level. Next city was Kingman, Arizona, and on to Seligman for the night, and also where the mountain standard time starts. The Bright Angel trail was taken from there to go into the Grand Canyon. The party stayed over night at Phantom Ranch where they enjoyed a barbecued steak dinner. Lunch was eaten at Spring Garden. It took some of the stronger members of the party six hours to climb out of the canyon. Tom Rickard being among the first. Tom celebrated his 21st birthday while in the Grand Canyon. The next day the party went to Cameron and visited Indian reservations at Tuba City and a petrified forest where dinosaur skeletons are in a splendid state of preservation. They camped at Navajo Bridge and next day went into Zion National Park. At Ely, Nevada, the group went through the mines visiting a big smelter. They met Miss Deynes Foley, former Nevada City girl and teacher in the Ely school on the street, and Tod Bonner's uncle in one of the mines. The next city was Austin and thence to Reno and home.

Specimens of salt from Death Valley and copper and other ores from mines in other states were brought home.

ECONOMY BLOCK CALLS GOVERNOR OLSON DICTATOR

SACRAMENTO, April 10.—Charges that Governor Olson is attempting to act in a dictatorial manner in regard to his high, record breaking state budget, were made today by members of the state legislature's "economy bloc" as the fight to reduce the proposed $557,163,355 state expenditures for the next two years entered its third week.

"Governor Olson's repeated demands that the legislature approve the budget exactly as submitted by him, without a single change are too much like a one man government for the free state of California," declared Assemblyman Fred Houser of Alhambra.

"We as legislators were elected to represent the people of California and not to follow blindly the demands of the governor, who incidentally also was elected by the people on his pledge to practice economy in state government," he said.

The economy bloc will disregard the demands, made several times by the governor, to approve the budget "as is", Houser said. The assembly already has forced elimination of a $200,000 appropriation to finance a compulsory health insurance system and intends, so far as the bi-partisan economy bloc is concerned, to continue to fight for reduction of the budget from thirty to fifty million dollars.

"Never before in the history of California has a governor had the self-assurance to demand of the legislature that it accept his budget without changing the dotting of an 'i' or the crossing of a 't' said Assemblyman Charles W. Stream of Palm City another economy minded legislator. "The Constitution of the state charges the legislature with the responsibility of determining the amount of the budget each two years and the necessity of the apropriations of the people's money contained therein.

"We do not intend to betray the trust placed in us by the people who elected us. We will support every budget item necessary for the welfare of all of the people. We will fight items that would make possible unwarranted use of money for SRA spoils, opportunities to spread nepotism in state employee ranks and most of all, efforts of the governor to ursurp duties delegated to the members of the state legislature by the people of California."

Mrs. Elliott M. Smith, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. H. M. Leete, of Prospect Hill, yesterday returned to San Francisco. JAPAN'S TRADE WITH AUSTRALIA DROPS SHARPLY

Australia may become the British arsenal for food and munitions in the Southwest Pacific according to present imperial plans writes Jack Shepherd in the Far Eastern Survey of the American Council, Institute of Pacific Relations.

The strengthening of imperial ties through close cooperation in economic and defense measures, coupled with the breakup in the Australian-Japanese trade partnership reflect a marked shift in Australian economy.

A few years ago Australia seemed to be swinging very much into Japan's economic orbit and away from the Mother Country, writes Mr. Shepherd, authority on Australia's international relations. But the Australian trade diversion policy of 1936 whereby prohibitive trafiffs and licensing system were raised against Japanese textiles led to decline in trade with the Far East. This has continued as a result of the war situation and drastic Japanese restrictions on raw materials imports. In view of the present situation in Japan, it is almost certain that the market there for Australian produce will continue to decline.

Fears of Japan's power have led the Australian government to embark on a formidable defense program. This with increased British purchases of American produce has helped to stave off economic difficulties. Essential industries already established are being strengthened. New industries such as automobile aircraft and munitions are being developed. Expansion of secondary industries may make Australia an exporter of manufactured goods in the near future. The Netherlands Indies other countries in the Southwest Pacific and Great Britain are possible markets.

These developments are not likely to increase prosperity or harmony in the Pacific area, concludes Mr. Shepherd, since they rest upon a basis of fear and mistrust, and have already involved a curtailment of healthy trade relationships.

CIO Gang Is Still In Control Of Camp At Narrows Dam Site

Two shifts of Sheriff Tobiassen's deputies are watching the CIO pickets who have succeeded in throwing one hundred men at work on the Narrows dam out of employment. Tobiassen's deputies patrol the south side of the Yuba river in Nevada county, where practically all the building and construction work is going forward, and Sheriff McCoy's deputies from Yuba county patrol the north bank.

The strike declared Friday morning, resulted in an influx of perhaps one hundred nondescripts to do duty along with the 28 CIO members that were employed on the dam, included in the 100 who were thrown out of work by the strike.

Last night a Yuba county deputy patrolling the north side of the river surprised a large group of CIOs at the little reservoir about a mile up river from the dam site which supplies domestic water to the construction camp. When he flashed his light on the group they fled. Later, however, nine were arrested by Sheriff McCoy and his deputies.

They are being held in Yuba county jail pending an investigation of their activities and just why they gathered at the dam. Sheriff Tobiassen is looking for Al Garesio and three other CIO leaders, who are charged with false arrest, and will be lodged in jail along with "Red" Adams.

The charge of false arrest is based on the action of the CIO strikers who entered the bunk house of the construction camp, armed with pick handles and billy clubs, at 6 o'clock Friday morning, just as the men were gathering for breakfast, and yelling: "All out!" escorted the men under guard to the top of the hill. This action comes under the head of false arrest and constitutes a felony.

Just before noon today a delegation of thirty workers, unaffiliated with any union called on District Attorney Stoll at the court house, and asked him to have the picket line removed so that they could go back to work. The district attorney told them they could go back to work any time, that they could not be interferred with in their right to work. But he stated that so long as the pickets complied with the county ordinance which permits peaceful picketing, they could not be removed legally. The leaders of the men stated they did not want to work behind a picket line.

Sheriff Tobiassen this afternoon went to Marysville to consult with Sheriff McCoy regarding uniform measures for maintaining order at the dam site.

Today there were about fifty pickets apparently on duty aong public road adjacent to the entrance to the dam site. But roaming about the hills were scores of others who apparently are there as reserves in case of trouble. They wander about among the trees, but usually seek shady spots and recline on the green green grass. From time to time they rise from their repose and amble down the road to their camp near the gate where food and coffee are served them.

Returning from Marysville this afternoon, Sheriff Tobiassen and his deputies happened to meet a car near the Dry Creek bridge which bore a number the sheriff has been looking for. The sheriff immediately turned around and pursued it. The driver of the car put on speed, until the sheriff says he got up to 75 miles an hour.

The sheriff lost sight of his quarry and finally gave up the chase, but on turning back noted fresh car tracks in a side road near Bruce's corner. The wheels of the car that made the tracks, had slipped badly going into the side road, indicating high speed. The sheriff "took a chance" and investigated. Three or four miles up the side road they came on the car they were after.

John Gailbreath, driver of the car is secretary of the Boca CIO local of which "Red" Adams is president. He is charged with driving at a reckless speed and with aiding and abetting the escape of criminals. He is now in jail along with "Red" Adams. The other two in the car were Jesse Sutton, secretary of the Narrows dam CIO local, and John Morgan, international CIO organizer. The sheriff has been looking for them for several days. They are now in jail charged with false arrest, the same as that against "Red" Adams.

Sheriff Tobiassen stated he was unable to identify any of the nine men which Sheriff McCoy has in custody at Marysville, who were arrested this morning, but a study will be made of photographs and finger prints in the State Bureau of Cminal Identification at Sacramento.

MANY MIGRANTS RETURNING HOME

BERKELEY, April 10.—The position of the mirgrant worker in California, his attempts to find a place in an over-saturated labor market and his relation to the general picture of both direct and work relief are set forth in a publication, Transients and Migrants, just issued by the Bureau of Public Administration, University of California. The study, which goes exhaustingly into the present status of the migrant worker, was prepared at the request of a number of the members of the current legislature as a possible basis of more corrective legislation touching upon the migrant problem.

The study, which was prepared by Victor Jones, research assistant, presents the problems of the migrant worker. So great have been his numbers in the state in recent years, that he is materially changing the biologic picture of farm labor generally. He has introduced new factors into the general family, linguistic and cultural characteristics of agricultural laborers. Since 1924 he has produced an excess of agricultural labor over demand in the state, with the single exceptions of October in 1936 and 1937, an excess that now constitutes what many regard as the state's chief economic problem. The situation would have been even more acute, Jones points out, if a number of Mexicans had not repatriated themselves under the new agrarian program of the Mexican government.

The manner in which the migrant laborer has been considered both useful and a vagrant is set forth in the study, as is the manner in which he is exploited by labor contractors. According to the study there has been a decided decrease in the number of out of state migrants, due to counter advertising, radio and newspaper warnings of lack of work, and discouraging letters sent "back home" by the migrants themselves; and an increase in the activity to return migrants to their home states.

Baxter is in charge of fire control for the Tahoe National forest urges particular caution on account of the unusually dry season.

Nepotism In High Places

We can't help but wonder how a jobless clerk, accountant or bookkeeper, discouraged by long and fruitless search for work, will feel as he reads recent revelations in the press concerning payroll padding in the SRA and WPA and the princely salaries paid to husband-and-wife combinations, brothers and sisters of administrators—uncles, aunts, cousins and all the rest. We can't help but wonder, too, how taxpayers will feel when they ponder requests at Sacramento for $63,000,000 in new taxes.

Dozens of flagrant cases have been unearthed where couples—with both husband and wife on the relief administration payroll—are being paid enough by the state to maintain four or five families in comfortable circumstances. And Edwin James Cooley, San Francisco SDA director, replies to crtics with the assertion: "Trained social workers are at a premium."

There can be no doubt that social workers are at a premium; the evidence is conclusive. But the evidence also indicates quite clearly that politics and relationship are important factors in determining the premium paid. We heartily concur, in this regard, with William A. Pixley, secretary of the Property Owners Association of California, who is fighting the battle of the small taxpayer against extravagant spending and new tax demands. Says Mr. Pixley: "Even the most hard pressed taxpayer has no desire to penalize the unfortunate for their misfortune. We can carry the legitimate relief load in California without resorting to new taxes, but we can't continue to carry a top-heavy super-structure in the administration of relief or any other governmental function. We need a little more fair play in the state government—fair play for the deserving needy and for wage-earners, farmers and business men who have contributed generously to support the needy. We need to cut out the padding and frills."

Governor Olson and the legislature should cooperate to clean up the relief administrative set-up and to stamp out the vicious nepotism system which has loaded state payrolls with political relatives and family dynasties. And the clean-up is overdue!—Contributed.

Pirates, Ahoy!

Perched in his editorial crow's nest, with an eye to windward for political buccaneers bent on "boarding" the Central Valley Water Project, Publisher Charles A. Whitmore of the Visalia Times-Delta sounds the warning: "Pirates, Ahoy!"

Taking note of several bills which have been dumped into the legislative hopper at Sacramento, designed to make water needs of the Central Valley area secondary and turn the project into another TVA experiment, Mr. Whitmore declares: "The agricultural interests of the two great central valleys have labored for years and spent fortunes in getting the project to its present status, only now to have an attempt made to sell it down the river to public ownership pirates."

The age of piracy apparently is still with us, although the modern-day swashbuckler is a much more subtle fellow than his swaggering predecessor. But the Central Valley Water Project is far too vital to California's welfare to permit political boarding parties to take it over for their own purposes.—Contributed.

HITLER REFUGEE ON U. C. STAFF

BERKELEY, April 10.—One of the ealriest refugees from the German Chancellor Hitler's anti-Semitic campaign in Austria, Dr. Otto Redlich of the Technical University of Vienna, is at the University of California to deliver a series of lectures upon invitation of Professor Gilbert N. Lewis, dean of the College of Chemistry. Dr. Redlich, who is widely known in the field of physical chemistry, has been in the United States since December, and has already delivered more than 80 lectures at universities and other educational institutions in this country.

The invitation from Professor Lewis, received while he was still in Vienna, was of great assistance in enabling him to leave Austria with a minimum of interference by Nazi authorities. Dr. Redlich said. The fact that he had close relatives in London also aided him in escaping the humiliation of a concentration camp or virtual imprisonment in his own home.

After completing his lecture series sere, Dr. Redlich expects to visit Los Angeles and Pasadena for further lectures.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. PENGELLY

Pall bearers were George Calanan, Simon Hieronimus, Dennis Coughlan, Ferdinand Schwartz, H. A. Curnow, Mervin Mitchell.

Tourist—"Good day, farmer. How are crops?"

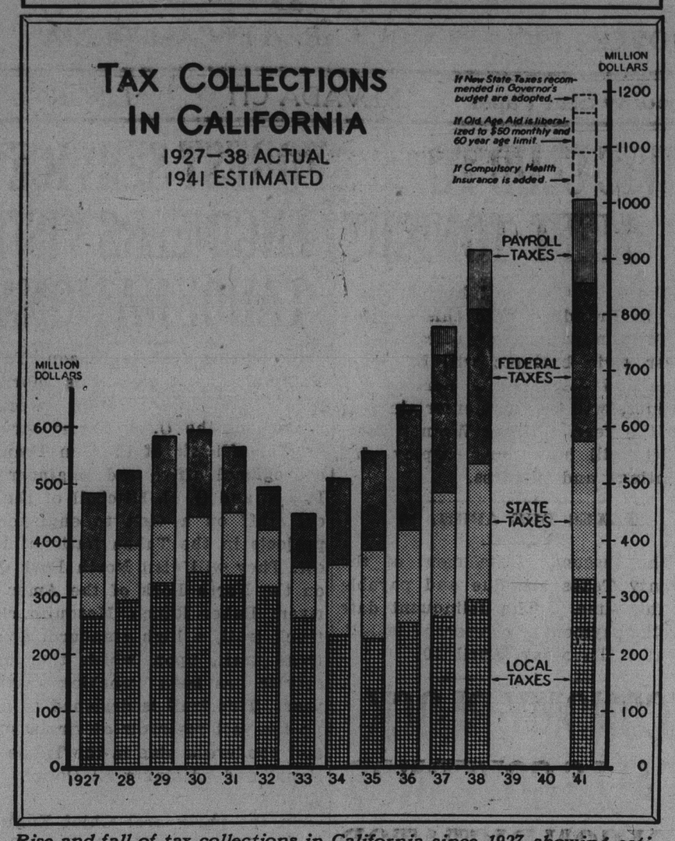

Farmer—"Terrible. We've had so little rain that the corn is so small the sparrows have to kneel down to eat it."

WITH YOUR ASSEMBLYMAN "SCOOP" THURMAN AT THE STATE CAPITOL

WITH YOUR :oiuiI

Your assemblyman's first bill passed the senate last Friday with a vote of 25 to 0. The bill, A. B. 2003 will give physically disabled persons an opportunity to take civil service examinations for positions for which they can qualify. It will allow, for example, a person who is hard of hearing and who desires to take an examination for a position which their physical condition will not interfere with, the right to have a shorthand reporter assist them at the examination.

A. G. Thurman

It might interest the readers of this newspaper to know the manner in which a bill is introduced and finally passed. Following the introduction of a bill in the assembly, for example, the bill is referred to a committee. The bill referred to above was placed in the assembly committee on civil service. As the author of the bill it was then my duty to appear before this committee and explain the purpose of the bill and endeavor to have the committee give it a "do pass" recommendation which would place the bill before the assembly for a vote. Assisted in appearing before this committee by several members of the Society for the Hard of Hearing, I was successful in having the bill given a "do pass" reccommendation and when t..he bill came up for a vote in the lower house it was given a unanimous vote.

After the bill's passage by the assembly it then was sent to the civil service committee of the senate where, as author of the bill. I again had to appear and explain its purpose. Again the bill was given the unanimous endorsement of the committee. With the bill then before the senate, your assemblyman secured the cooperation of Senators Jesse Mayo and Jerrold Seawell in sponsoring the bill on the floor of the upper house where, as we stated above, it was given the unanimous vote of the 25 members present last Friday. When the governor signs the bill, it will then become a law.

The above brief sketch, I believe, will give you an idea as to how laws are passed. The bill must first be recommended by the committee of the house in which it is introduced and must pass through both committees and both houses.

The past week has been a busy one. I can assure you with numerous bills affecting the smaller towns and communities up for consideration. This coming week the budget hearing will be resumed and it is likely that most of the week will be devoted to that particular bill. In the hearing on the bill two weeks ago the author of the budget bill agreed to eliminate one item in the budget. The item was the $200,000 appropriation for the purpose of establishing a state health insurance plan. This item will be placed in the proposed insurance bill, instead of in the budget. This was considered a victory for the economy group, who feel that taxes cannot be increased and that the power to tax is the power to destroy. It is possible that this week other items in the budget may be reduced in the interest of economy.

ECONOMY BLOCK BATTLES OLSON'S HUGE BUDGET

SACRAMENTO, April 10.—Indignation over Governor Olson's latest recommendation for salary increases in state positions in the higher brackets was expressed today by members of the state egislature "economy block" as the battle over the governor's high record budget of $557,163,355 entered its second week. Salary boosts advocated by Governor Olson are those of the building and loan commissioner and the insurance commissioner; each to be raised from $6,000 to $10,000.

"Our fight against waste and extravagance in evpenditure of state funds will be concentrated against similar abuses dramatically brought to light during the last few days," said a member of the group.

"We will endeavor to throw safeguards around relief funds so they cannot be used for nepotism in future. Governor Olson's action in demanding discharge of husbands and wives holding high salaried jobs in the state relief administration while claiming there is not sufficient money to feed the hungry is belated justice at best.

In light of these revelations, there is doubt that $73,660,000 asked for relief in the budget is justified. Certainly our taxpayers should not be called upon to pay those on relief the $60,000 a year that assertedly goes for dues in the Workers' Alliance. Relief funds must be safeguarded from such pressure groups."

Assemblyman Harrison W. Call of Redwood City said similar stands would be made against voting money that might be used for production-for-use, for aid to aliens, for constructing a new state building at a cost of $1,750,000, for construction of a new governor's mansion and for appropriating $200,000 for a compulsory medical care plan which it is predicted will not be aproved by the legislature.

"In addition to the foregoing, examination of the proposed budget has shown that at least 1,444 new state jobs would be created if we blindly accepted the governor's financial recommendations, as he requests. On the contrary, we intend to scrutinize every item carefully to see if it is necessary, and if the people of California approve of our efforts to hold down the costs of government, we would like to have them tell us so."

THE POCKETBOOK of KNOWLEDGE

BY TOPPS

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder at the curious things
Our modern youngsters do;
But I, myself, was foolish once
And so indeed were you.
I never ate the gold fish raw
And living too, but still,
I did play tag on mining flumes
With Bess and Ed and Bill.

I wonder who conceived the idea of live gold fish eating contests and sold it to groups of high school and college students, in various sections of the land.

Almost any variety of fish, even mud cats and tom cods, might prove to be palatable if nicely fried, peppered salted and garnished with fresh sprigs of parsley, but alive and wriggling—ugh!

I wonder if these omnivorous children who engage in peculiar contests, have been told that fish is brain food and are taking the assertion rather too seriously; but there is another belief, advocated by many sage siologists, which is that we tend to become like the things we feed upon, I venture no remarks concerning the eaters of raw and living fish, the young student who won the respect and admiration of his companions by consuming a Victrola record, will probably follow the music, around and around.

I wonder if a ruler is treading upon dangerous ground, when he begins claiming everything in sight; at present, we are hearing much of this sort of thing, from over there. "Little men," delivering mysterious speeches behind bullet proof glass and other barricades, shout, "my country, my army, my navy, my air force—my people;" best beware, "little men," there are those among every population who dislike being owned body and soul, even in a country whose people have for the time being, been enslaved.

I wonder what has become of George B. Shaw; he seems alarmingly reticent of late; can it be that he is getting mellow in his later years?

I wonder if nature is waving her magic wand over fields and hills and bosky nooks, where the wild flowers await the call which bids them to come forth and fill the land with loveliness. At this season of the year memory never fails to recall the lines written by Joaquin Miller many years ago—

"Above, above a blue, blue sky,
Beneath the green, green sod,
And ever and ever between the two
Blow the wonderful winds of God."

Uncle Silas says: "Unless something can be done in a hurry, we shall have a dry summer up here on the Ridge; it seems to be as hard this year to start Jupiter Pluvius, as it is to stop Hitler."

—A. MERRIAM CONNER.

TRAINING CAMP AT MONTEREY OPENS IN JULY

PRESIDIO OF MONTEREY, Apr. 10.—The Citizens' Military Training Camp, to be held at the Presidio of Monterey this summer, offers an opportunity for 1,100 California young men between the ages of 17 and 29 to be trained in the duties and responsibilities of American citizenship, it was stated today by Colonel Homer M. Groninger, 11th Cavalry Camp Commander.

During the month of July, training in Infantry, Cavalry and Field Artillery is offered, under the leadership of regular army and reserve officers, specially selected for this important assignment. The C. M. T. camp at the Presidio of Monterey is a hive of activity as the 1,100 youths go through their daily routine of drill, instruction, recreation and leisure. Transportation to and from the camp, clothing, food, and quarters are furnished by the government to all trainees.

In the summer of 1938, the Citizens' Military Training camp all over the United States enrolled 33,000 young men for the month's period. The Monterey camp, largest in the Ninth Corps Area, included 1,100 youths from all over California and western Nevada.

"Did you have the car out last night son?"

"Yes, dad. I took Bill for a ride."

"Well, tell him I found his little lace handkerchief."

Doctor—"You must quit worrying about yourself. Try to bury yourself in your work."

Patient—"Gosh, and me a concrete mixer!"

"Little Mary—"Let's be pals, daddy."

Father—"Certainly, my dear."

Little Mary—"Well, palsy, how about dumping out the cod liver oil?"

DOG FLAGS TRAIN TO SAVE HIS PAL

Maybe we're wrong, but while we're waiting for a man to make news by biting a dog, we're under the impression that it's news when a dog flags a train!

Anyway, here's the yarn, vouched for by E. L. King, superintendent of Southern Pacific's Portland division, who had it straight from Engineer Roy Hall and Fireman J. K. Mills.

"Recently," said King, "while Hall and Mills were piloting a freight train over Southern Pacific's Springfield-Woodburn branch, they noticed a large collie dog sitting between the rails a short distance ahead.

"As the train approached, the dog ran to a thicket alongside the right-of-way, then back to the center of the track, where it remained until the engine was about 50 feet away.

"The peculiar actions of the animal prompted the engineer to reduce his speed, whereupon the fireman observed another dog trapped in the strands of a wire fence. Stopping their train, the engine crew released the captive, a shepherd, which was slowly choking to death.

"And believe it or not, Engineer Hall and Fireman Mills are certain that the collie and the shepherd said 'thanks, pals' before trotting happily away."

Miss Esther Nile to Wed E. T. Warren

The betrothal of Miss Esther Isabel Nile to Edward T. arren was revealed Saturday at a luncheon party, when Mrs. Herbert J. Nile and her sister, Mrs. C. R. Mupchie, were hostesses at the latter's home on East Broad street in Nevada City.

The table was centered with a crystal vase containing pink tulips, white lilacs and jonquils, banked by French corsages in which the announcement cards were concealed, pastel shaded ribbons led to ce cards in an Easter motif.

HUNGRY BARONET

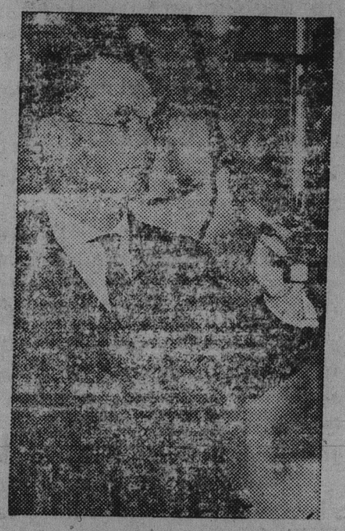

When Andrew Ashton Waller Hills of London, five-year-old son of the late John Waller Hills, privy councilor, was informed that King George VI had conferred a baronetcy on him he thought it was something to eat. His father would have been honored by the king at New Year's ceremonies but for his death Christmas eve.

BRIGADIER GENERAL

First native born soldier of the U. S. territory of Puerto Rico to be made a brigadier general in the national guard or regular army is Luis Paul Esteves, former colonel recently elevated by President Roosevelt. He is now the highest ranking army officer in Uncle Sam's tropical island, regarded as a strategic outpost for the Panama canal.

CLOSED DOOR POLICY

As a protest against what he terms a "misuse" of science by the totalitarian states, Professor Percy Bridgman, Harvard university physicist, has shut his research laboratory to visitors from those countries and refuses to discuss his experiments with them.

Misses Nathelle Worthley and Mary Warneke of San Francisco spent Saturday in Nevada City. The two young women are taking a course in nursing in St. Mary's hospital in San Francisco.

FROST RESIDENCE DESTROYED BY FIRE

The home of Mrs. W. A. Frost on Long street was almost burned to the ground Saturday night at ten o'clock by a fire of undetermined origin.

Roy Watson, a boarder with the Frost family had been asleep and upon awakening he found the room filled with smoke and woke up coughing. An alarm was turned in and the Nevada City fire deportment quickly answered.

Just where the fire started was not learned—nor how it was started but atson is sure that it must have started from wiring around the house.

Everything was lost except a washing machine and two trunks which were saved by Watson. No one was home at the time of the fire except Watson, as the children had gone to the show and Mrs. Frost had gone to a social event.

The family of six were left without any belongings, except the clothes which they were wearing. Not much of the building was saved, in spite of the splendid efforts of the fire department.

Gilbert Davies, principa of the Angels Camp high school is spending his Easter vacation with relatives in the Blue Tent district and in Nevada City.
